The New Mexico Home Visiting Summit

is a gathering of statewide early childhood professionals who work in and advocate for home visiting as an effective model to improve the health and wellbeing of children and families.

This two-day event, the first of its kind in New Mexico, aims to share knowledge and elevate the profession of home visiting, while bolstering family support systems throughout the diverse communities in our state.

National and local speakers will engage our audience in presentations and collaborative discussions surrounding groundbreaking work within home visiting, with the goal to deepen our understanding of opportunities and challenges.

Breakout session topic areas include: trauma-informed practice, culturally relevant services, child abuse, substance use, family engagement, economic implications, and service provider self-care.

♥ DAY 1 (for Home Visiting Professionals Only) Thursday, August 23, 2018, 1:00-4:30pm with an evening social event 5:00-6:30pm

Featuring a local keynote speaker (to be determined) and breakout sessions, Day 1 is devoted solely to home visiting practitioners and program administrators.

♥ DAY 2 (for Home Visiting Professionals & the Public) Friday, August 24, 2018, 7:30am-4:30pm, lunch is included

Keynote Speaker is Ellen Galinsky, leading child development expert, work-family researcher, author, cofounder/president of Families and Work Institute, and director of its Mind in the Making program on the science of children's learning.

Day 2 is open to additional audience members in broader areas of early childhood education, childcare, and family support services as well as the general public.
